Rev. G. H. Corey, formerly of Metropoli-tan, and Rev. C. W. Baldwin, formerly of Wesley and the Society of the American University, will be given appointments. Dr. D. B. Seaton, the pastor of Ebenezer, officiated at the services, assisted by Mt. Zion's pastor, Rev. Dr. Carroll. Dr. Seaton based his sermon on "True Odd Fellow

It was an effort of eloquence and appreciated by all.

District Master D. B. Webster also addressed the assembled lodge men. He pronounced the order the strongest and most wealthy colored one in the District. Its membership now is over 2,400. The move-ment on foot to build a hall in Georgetown was commended highly and the movers in the project lauded for their zeal. The Georgetown Odd Fellows have already purchased the site for their proposed hall. It is located on 28th street, west side, between O and P. The proposed building will cost $20,000 to erect. The fund necessary for the purpose has already assumed pleasing proportions and the building com-mittee are sanguine of early success. The hall will be four stories in height, of an imposing style and amply fitted with rooms in which other lodges may meet.

Some of the most prominent Odd Fellows present at the services were District Master D. B. Webster, S. W. Watson, the secretary of the District lodge; F. D. Lee, Jas. A. Wade, Alger White, John Walker and A. Wade, Alger White, John Walker and Charles Brown, directors of the District of Columbia Grand Lodge; Dr. C. H. Living-ston, chief marshal; Mr. Jas. L. The members of the Washigton National Band gave their services to the occasion gratuitously, and the Hawthorn and Von-del societies took advantage of the large gathering to present to the church a beau tiful and valuable water service.

In addition to the 500 Odd Fellows present there were over 500 outsiders at the services last evening.

HIS FAREWELL SERMON.

The Close of Dr. Chester's Pastorate Marks an Efoch.

Rev. John Chester, D. D., last evening preached his farewell sermon as pastor of the Metropolitan Presbyterian Church, 4th and A streets southeast. The auditorium was crowded to the doors. While Dr. Chester does not intend to leave the city, where he has so many friends, still the occasion last evening, as marking the last official words of one who had for the past third of a century served the congregation as pastor, was not without some feeling of sadness. He spoke of his motives for resigning, and said that the development of the church of Christ in the present age and its advancement have enlarged the du-ties of the paster so that it has become necessary that he give to the work only his best years and strength. Dr. Chester said that he believed that the time was near at hand when it would become the duty of the larger churches to subdivide the work of the pastor, give him clerical assistance, and require the eldership and the deacon-ate to help in the preaching and in the pasate to help in the preaching and in the pas-toral work.

"There have been wonderful advances," said Dr. Chester, "in these thirty years among our churches in this city. When I came to be your pastor there were but four churches east of the Capitol, but since that time fifteen have been organized, and most of them have erected fine elifices. It is pleasing to think we have any numbers of them have erected fine elifices. It is pleasing to think we have aent members to nearly every one of these churches. I enjoin you to secure the future prosperity of the church," he continued, "by adhering to sound doctrine. We have no demand for the revised Bible or revised creed. The good old Bible, accepted as fully inspired, and the grand old confession of faith have been good enough for this church, and under both it has prospered in the past."

In closing he expressed his appreciation

In closing he expressed his appreciation of the kindness shown him by the members of the congregation.
